The Pope has chosen "They shall bear fruit even in old age" from the Book of Psalms (92:15) as the theme for the 2022 World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly, to highlight the importance of inviting older people to contribute to building a better world.

Many thanks to our Senior CFMers, Francis and Carmel Colaso, and Johny and Nancy Mascarenhas, who shared how productive they are in their senior years.

"The elderly" said Pope Francis, "should be cared for like a treasure of humanity; they are our wisdom, our memory. It is crucial that grandchildren remain close to their grandparents, who are like roots from which they draw the sap of human and spiritual values."

We thank the children who sent in their cards to their grandparents. May that special bonding be their joy and strength.

The World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly is an opportunity to proclaim once more, with joy, that the Church wants to celebrate together with all those whom the Lord – in the words of the Bible – has "filled with days". Let us celebrate it together!

Wishing our Senior CFMers continued blessings for a long, healthy and fruitful life.

Dear CFMers.

Happy World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly ... a celebration of life!

Many of us Catholics associate the month of July with grandparents as we celebrate the memorial for Saints Joachim and Anne, who were the parents of the blessed Virgin Mary and grandparents of Jesus.

Generally, to the grandchildren their grandparents conjure an image of unconditional love, kindness, patience, comfort and a go-to-place when things do not go as anticipated. With our nuclear society, it is accepted that a father and mother along with their children is considered a family, however a child needs grandparent/s to grow a little more securely into an unfamiliar world. The family, along with grandparents, plays a major role in creating a culture full of moral values and catholic discipline for the children. They help in creating a homogenous environment in the house which gives a sense of security to the child. Grandparents and children have a special connection that is proven to both, it makes grandparents live longer and also makes children emotionally resilient. It gives us an opportunity to treasure that connection and spend some quality, family time together.

Grandparents are the family's strong foundation and greatest treasure, the founders of a loving legacy, the greatest storytellers and the keepers of traditions. Through their special love and care, grandparents keep a family close at heart. We don't always realize the impact the Elders have on our lives and our kid's lives. Nowadays many a grandparent or elder relative have been left to fend for themselves but we also have wonderful examples where they are cared for and are able to have a comfortable life at the end of their time in this world. As the Christian Family Movement, we should help and encourage our Elders to continue to live a productive life.

In this time and age where relationships have taken a whole new meaning where parents and youngsters want to live an independent life may we emulate the grandparents whose caring and loving attitude kept the family intact. We couldn't have any better role model for modern parents and children than Saint Joachim and Saint Anne, simply because of the holy lives they lived and how they raised the mother of God.

Message of His Holiness Pope Francis

For the 2nd World Day for Grandparents & The Elderly

Dear Friends.

"In old age they will still bear fruit" (Ps 92:15). These words of the Psalmist are glad tidings, a true "gospel" that we can proclaim to all on this second World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly. They run counter to what the world thinks about this stage of life, but also to the attitude of grim resignation shown by some of us elderly people, who harbour few expectations for the future.

Many people are afraid of old age. They consider it a sort of disease with which any contact is best avoided. The elderly, they think, are none of their concern and should be set apart, perhaps in homes or places where they can be cared for, lest we have to deal with their problems. This is the mindset of the "throw-away culture", which leads us to think that we are somehow different from the poor and vulnerable in our midst, untouched by their frailties and separated from "them" and their troubles. The Scriptures see things differently. A long life – so the Bible teaches - is a blessing, and the elderly are not outcasts to be shunned but living signs of the goodness of God who bestows life in abundance. Blessed is the house where an older person lives! Blessed is the family that honours the elderly!

Old age is not a time of life easily understood even by those of us who are already experiencing it. Even though it eventually comes with the passage of time, no one prepares us for old age, and at times it seems to take us by surprise. The more developed societies expend large sums on this stage of life without really helping people to understand and appreciate it; they offer healthcare plans to the elderly but not plans for living this age to the full. This makes it hard to look to the future and discern what direction to take. On the one hand, we are tempted to ward off old age by hiding our wrinkles and pretending to be forever young, while on the other, we imagine that the only thing we can do is bide our time, thinking glumly that we cannot "still bring forth fruit".

Retirement and grown children make many of the things that used to occupy our time and energy no longer so pressing. The recognition that our strength is ebbing or the onset of sickness can undermine our certainties. The fast pace of the world – with which we struggle to keep up – seems to leave us no alternative but to implicitly accept the idea that we are useless. We can resonate with the heartfelt prayer of the Psalmist: "Do not cast me off in the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength is spent" (71:9).

Yet that same psalm – which meditates on how the Lord has been present at every stage of our lives – urges us to persevere in hope. Along with old age and white hairs, God continues to give us the gift of life and to keep us from being overcome by evil. If we trust in him, we will find the strength to praise him still (cf. vv. 14-20). We will come to see that growing old is more than the natural decline of the body or the inevitable passage of time, but the gift of a long life. Aging is not a condemnation, but a blessing!

For this reason, we ought to take care of ourselves and remain active in our later years. This is also true from a spiritual standpoint: we ought to cultivate our interior life through the assiduous reading of God, daily prayer, of the word reception of the sacraments participation in the liturgy. In addition to our relationship with God, we should also cultivate our relationships with others: first of all by showing affectionate concern for our families, our children and grandchildren, but also for the poor and those who suffer, by drawing near to them with practical assistance and our prayers. These things will help us not to feel like mere bystanders, sitting on our porches or looking out from our windows, as life goes on all around us. Instead, we should learn to discern everywhere the presence of the Lord. Like "green olive trees in the house of God" (cf. Ps 52:10), we can become a blessing for those who live next to us.

Old age is no time to give up and lower the sails, but a season of enduring fruitfulness: a new mission awaits us and bids us look to the future. The special sensibility that those of us who are elderly have for the concerns, thoughts and the affections that make us human should once again become the vocation of many. It would be a sign of our love for the younger generations. This would be our own contribution to the revolution of tenderness, a spiritual and non-violent revolution in which I encourage you, dear grandparents and elderly persons, to take an active role.

Our world is passing through a time of trial and testing, beginning with the violent outbreak sudden. of the pandemic, and then by a war that is harming peace and development on a global scale. Nor is it a coincidence that war is returning to Europe at a time when the generation that experienced it in the last century is dying out. These great crises risk anaesthetizing us to the reality "epidemics" other and violence widespread forms of that menace the human family and our common home.

All this points to the need for a profound change, a conversion, that disarms hearts and leads us to see others as our brothers or sisters. We grandparents and elderly people have a great responsibility: to teach the women and men of our time with to others the regard same understanding and loving gaze with which we regard our own grandchildren. We ourselves have grown in humanity by caring for others, and now we can be teachers of a way of life that is peaceful and attentive to those in greatest need. attitude may be mistaken for weakness or resignation, yet it will be the meek, not the aggressive and the abusive, who will inherit the earth (cf. Mt 5:5).

One fruit that we are called to bring forth is protecting the world. Our grandparents held us in their arms and carried us on their knees; now is the time for us to carry on our own knees – with practical assistance or with prayer alone – not only our own grandchildren but also the many frightened grandchildren whom we have not yet met and who may be fleeing from war or suffering its effects. Let us hold in our hearts – like Saint Joseph, who was a loving and attentive father – the little ones of Ukraine, of Afghanistan, of South Sudan.

Many of us have come to a stage and humble realization of what our world very much needs: the recognition that we are not saved alone, and that happiness is a bread we break together. Let us bear witness to this before those who wrongly think that they can find personal fulfilment and success conflict. in Everyone, even the weakest among us, can do this. The very fact that we allow ourselves to be cared for - often by people who come from other countries is itself a way of saying that living together in peace is not only possible, but necessary.

We grandparents and elderly people have a great responsibility: to teach the women and men of our time to regard others with the same understanding and loving gaze with which we regard our own grandchildren.

Dear grandparents, dear elderly persons, called to be artisans are the revolution of tenderness in our world! Let us do so by learning to make ever more frequent and better use of the most valuable instrument at our disposal and, indeed, the one best suited to our age: prayer. Let us too become, as it were, poets of prayer: let us develop a taste for finding our own words, let us once again take up those taught by the word of God. Our trustful prayer can do a great deal: it can accompany the cry of pain of those who suffer, and it can help change hearts. We can be the enduring 'chorus' of a great spiritual sanctuary, where prayers of supplication and songs of praise sustain the community that toils and struggles in the field of life.

The World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly is an opportunity to proclaim once more, with joy, that the Church wants to celebrate together with all those whom the Lord - in the words of the Bible - has "filled with days". Let us celebrate it together! I ask you to make this Day known in your parishes and communities; to seek out those elderly persons who feel most alone, at home or in residences where they live. Let us make sure that no one feels alone on this day. Expecting a visit can transform those days when we think we have nothing to look forward to: from an initial encounter, a new friendship can emerge. Visiting the elderly who live alone is a work of mercy in our time!

Let us ask Our Lady, Mother of Tender Love, to make all of us artisans of the revolution of tenderness, so that together we can set the world free from the spectre of loneliness and the demon of war.

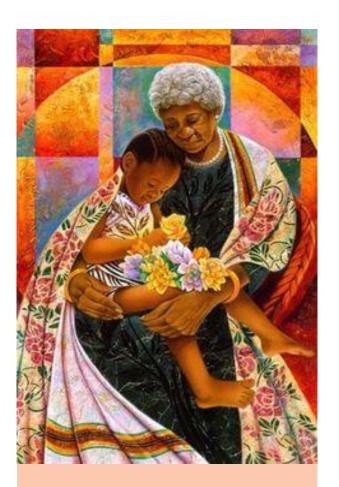

To all of you, and to your loved ones, I send my blessing and the assurance of my closeness and affection. And I ask you, please, not to forget to pray for me!

The Elderly in Our Midst!

Friar Sidney J. M. Mascarenhas, O.F.M., Ph.D., National Chaplain

1. A remark about the citation and its source:

- KJV Psalm 92:13 Those that be planted in the house of the LORD shall flourish in the courts of our God. 14 They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing; 15 To shew that the LORD is upright: he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him.
- NAS Psalm 92:13 Planted in the house of the LORD, They will flourish in the courts of our God. 14 They will still yield fruit in old age; They shall be full of sap and very green, 15 To declare that the LORD is upright; He is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in Him.
- NJB Psalm 92:13 Planted in the house of Yahweh, they will flourish in the courts of our God. 14 In old age they will still bear fruit, will remain fresh and green, 15 to proclaim Yahweh's integrity; my rock, in whom no fault can be found.
- "13 Planted in the house of Yahweh, they will flourish in the courts of our God. 14 In old age they will still bear fruit, will remain fresh and green, 15 to proclaim Yahweh's integrity; my rock, in whom no fault can be found." (NABRE(1921 Version)).

In English, there are many versions of the same text in English. Both, Pope Francis & the Vatican Press quote from this recent & new English Version of the National American Bible (NAB) Revised Version just published in 2021).

2. Some remarks about this Papal Message.

Since 2021, Pope Francis wanted the Feasts of St. Joachim and Anna to be celebrated as the Feast of Grandparents & the Elderly in our midst on 24 July!

2.1. The Elderly and Old do not retire from "an Evangelical life and an Evangelical witness.

On 31 January 2021, Pope Francis announced a new celebration for the Church. This time it was a message not about a new Saint or a new Blessed, but about human relationship in the everyday family life of Catholics. This time it was about the Elderly and Old in our midst, and, in our present day societies. Like Religious Life, Evangelical "life & witness" does not reach any "age of retirement" or "a time to be pensioned." Evangelical life and witness is not just another "Profession," but "Life" itself! And having an "Elder" in a "home" is not just like having "outcasts" in a home.

2.2. The Scriptures.

Even in the Scriptures, a long life is a blessing, wisdom and understanding! (Jb 12:12) To the elderly belong sound judgement and good counsel. (Sir 25:4) The elderly have experience and the fear of the Lord. (Sir 25:6) The Elderly get to see their children's children. (Pr 17:6)

2.3. The "Mindset" of a "Throw-away" Culture.

The "Mindset" of "throw-away" cultures, of course, see the old and elderly as "outcasts" to be shunned! Pope Francis rejects this attitude in a society. Even in India, we sometimes come across cases where children throw their parents out of their own house.

2.4. The fast pace of our contemporary world and the Elderly!

In Greek times there were just two types: (Forethinkers) Promethean Epimythean (Postthinkers). The Bible had Historical, Kingly, Prophetic and Apocalyptic thinkers. Modern times in Europe brought about Scientific Thinkers. Of course, all times have had their Poets and Singers! In our Contemporary World, everything moves and changes fast. Ways of life, Methodologies, Styles, Legitimations. etc, fast become "outmoded." "outdated" and Even people become outmoded, outdated, forerunners and also and frontliners! Everything is "hypothetical."

We live in a Digital World. We use Cellphones, Facebook, Instagram and Internet! Today, "knowledge is saved in the clouds and downloaded." Even our food habits are losing their former "local" flavours. We live on junk food and are all the time faced with junk news. In an age of communication, ironically, we face more information that is ironically mostly "discommunication."

Pope Francis also refers to Psalm 71:9, again the NABRE Version: "Do not cast me aside in my old age; as my strength fails, do not forsake me." Indeed, Pope Francis resonates the general feeling among old people: "They do not want to lag behind or feel left out or be a burden for their children and grandchildren. Yet, that very Psalm 71:14 – 15, Pope Francis points out, is a Psalm full of hope. The same Psalm says: "I will always hope in you and add to all your praise. My mouth shall proclaim your just deeds, day after day your acts of deliverance, though I cannot number them all."

What a candid acknowledgement of impending "dementia" that often marks the elderly - the "second childhood", in popular terms? And as if to emphasize this impending "dementia", Psalm 71:18 - 19 continues: "Now that I am old and gray do not forsake me, God. That I may proclaim your might to all generations to come, your power and justice, to the highest heaven, You have done great things; O God, who is your equal?"

3. Aging is not a Condemnation but a Blessing!

Pope Francis goes on to write these words of encouragement: "Old age is no time to give up and lower the sails, but a season of enduring fruitfulness: a new mission awaits us and bids us look to the future." "The special sensibility that those of us who are elderly have for the concerns, thoughts and the affections that make us human should once again become the vocation of many. It would be a sign of our love for the younger generations". [3] This would be our own contribution to the revolution of tenderness, [4] a spiritual and non-violent revolution in which I encourage you, dear grandparents and elderly persons, to take an active role.

The footnote 3 indicated in this text refers to a Catechesis - 3 on old age given on 16th March 2022. The footnote 4 refers to a Catechesis on the tenderness of St, Joseph given on 19 January 2022.

Pope Francis points out that aging is not a condemnation, but a blessing. Aging mellows tenderness in us humans. We become even more considerate not only to all our dear ones but to all! We do not merely sit all day on our balconies and watch the people and traffic on the road below. We become a blessing to all. The Elderly become a fullness of grace to all. The Elderly are called to be a blessing to all. This reminds me of the time I spent sometimes in my summer holidays in Mangalore. After night prayer, we, grandkids, asked our grandparents and the other elderly for their blessing! But Elderly, further, the are a visible "Memory," a past, still "incarnate" in our present day world. Their "memory" are "living treasures."

4, Role of the Elderly in a Society: radiate blessings!

Finally, this document reminds us of the roles the Elderly have in the life of youth. The document reminds the elderly that they have a major role to play in the lives of the generations that succeed them.

Old age is no time to give up and lower the sails, but a season of enduring fruitfulness: a new mission awaits us and bids us look to the future.

The elderly should be "blessings" and not a "curse' on the younger generation! The Elderly radiate a life filled with longevity, which, in itself, is already a blessing! In short, the Elderly have still their unique privilege and task in every society! Silver hair is not only majestic, it is also precious and glitters! The Old are Wisdom! The Old are a Blessing! The Old are like a lit candle in a room of darkness!

AN APPEAL:

Dear CFMers.

I appeal to each unit of CFMers to be open to and invite new couples into their groups and into their Local and Regional Units. Do not let the CFM age. Do not let the CFM wither! Be fertile and multiply!

Also identify more Chaplains!

Be lit candles in your areas!

Wishing all CFM Grandparents, a very Happy & Special Grandparents Day

Grandparents are important in our lives. They provide unconditional love. Like parents, grandparents love unconditionally which helps a child feel safe and secure. The benefits are mutual; relationships such as these can help grandparents have happier and longer lives.

Grandparents help teach family culture, tradition, and history. They provide a vital connection to the past. Grandparents can pass on important family traditions and life stories that grandchildren will not only relish when young but will go to appreciate even more over time.

Long Live Grandparents!!

St. Anne and St. Joachim

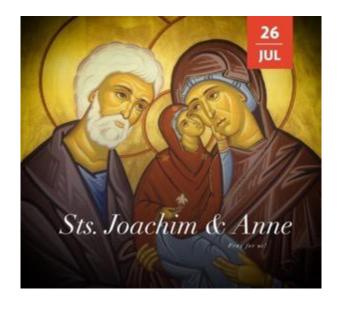

Catholic News Agency

On July 26 the Roman Catholic Church commemorates the parents of the Virgin Mary, Saints Joachim and Anne. The couple's faith and perseverance brought them through the sorrow of childlessness, to the joy of conceiving and raising the immaculate and sinless woman who would give birth to Christ.

The New Testament contains no specific information about the lives of the Virgin Mary's parents, but other documents outside of the Biblical canon do provide some details. Although these writings are not considered authoritative in the same manner as the Bible, they outline some of the Church's traditional beliefs about Joachim, Anne and their daughter.

The "Protoevangelium of James," which was probably put into its final written form in the early second century, describes Mary's father Joachim as a wealthy member of one of the Twelve Tribes of Israel. Joachim was deeply grieved, along with his wife Anne, by their childlessness. "He called to mind Abraham," the early Christian writing says, "that in the last day God gave him a son Isaac."

Joachim and Anne began to devote themselves to rigorous prayer and fasting, in isolation from one another and from society. They regarded their inability to conceive a child as a surpassing misfortune, and a sign of shame among the tribes of Israel.

As it turned out, however, the couple were to be blessed even more abundantly than Abraham and Sarah. An angel revealed this to Anne when he appeared to her and prophesied that all generations would honor their future child: "The Lord has heard your prayer, and you shall conceive, and shall bring forth; and your seed shall be spoken of in all the world."

After Mary's birth, according to the Protoevangelium of James, Anne "made a sanctuary" in the infant girl's room, and "allowed nothing common or unclean" on account of the special holiness of the child. The same writing records that when she was one year old, her father "made a great feast, and invited the priests, and the scribes, and the elders, and all the people of Israel."

"And Joachim brought the child to the priests," the account continues, "and they blessed her, saying: 'O God of our fathers, bless this child, and give her an everlasting name to be named in all generations' ... And he brought her to the chief priests; and they blessed her, saying: 'O God most high, look upon this child, and bless her with the utmost blessing, which shall be forever."

The protoevangelium goes on to describe how Mary's parents, along with the temple priests, subsequently decided that she would be offered to God as a consecrated Virgin for the rest of her life, and enter a chaste marriage with the carpenter Joseph.

St. Joachim and St. Anne have been a part of the Church's liturgical calendar for many centuries. Devotion to memory is particularly strong in the Eastern Catholic churches, where their intercession is invoked by the priest at the end of each Divine Liturgy. The Eastern churches, however, celebrate Sts. Joachim and Anne on a different date, Sept. 9.

In My Golden Years

by Deborah Ann Belka

In my golden years, my faith is mightier my hope grows steadier my trust gets sturdier.

The body gets weaker, the mind is foggier the memory grows poorer the recollection's fewer.

My beliefs root deeper, my strength gets stronger my doubts move further my fears get lesser.

The eyes get dimmer, the knees are creakier the spine gets stiffer the muscles softer.

God gets bigger, the world gets smaller the Lord grows nearer my worries calmer.

In my golden years, I am more aware . . . God's still concerned about my welfare!

10 Ways to Stay Positive in the Golden Years

Debbie Waddel

Maintaining a positive outlook on life can help you boost your cognitive health and enhance your mood.

1. Write Down Goals

Writing down goals can help one do more to attain them. Setting goals keeps the brain active and in a positive space. Each day work hard to achieve these goals instead of being unproductive and allowing time to pass by. The goals can be to exercise often, eat nutritious foods, maintain strong social ties, and so on.

2. Build Positive Relationships

Socializing with people who are happy, stress-free, and full of joy could be a positive influence. Turning to positive people when feeling unhappy or stressed could immediately change the mood and lead to a better outcome.

3. Share Positive News

When something good happens share the news, regardless of how small or big it may be. Encourage your friends and loved ones to share their positive news. It will brighten up your day and outlook.

4. Avoid Negative Words

Speaking negatively about people, places, and things could lead to a bad attitude, making it difficult to get along with others. However, avoiding negative words could enhance one's behavior.

5. Exercise

When one exerts energy through physical activities, the body releases chemicals known as endorphins, which provide positive feelings that prevent muscle strains. Exercise can raise the body temperature, which has a calming effect on the mind. Exercise also helps to lower their blood pressure and stress levels, which can lead to better physical health, more energy, and positive thinking.

6. Eat Healthy

Nutrients like omega-3 fatty acids, B vitamins, and fibre can lift the spirits. Avoid eating sugars and unhealthy foods that cause the body to crash, and leave one feeling exhausted, sluggish, and agitated. Consuming healthy foods like fruits, vegetables, fish, and other lean meats can help you feel and look great and maintain a positive outlook.

7. Compliment Others

Praising others can boost your confidence and overall attitude. The more positivity you put out into the world, the better your chances are of receiving praise and positive compliments in return.

8. Take Up A Hobby

Hobbies encourage seniors to focus on learning new skills, which promotes mental acuity and reduces feelings of loneliness. Many hobbies have a social component - like a bird watching club or a knitting circle.

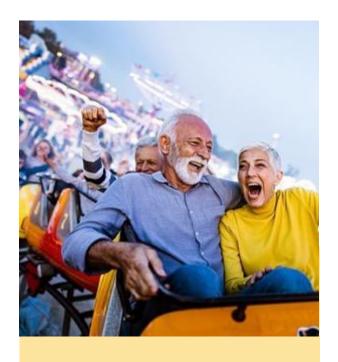

9. Volunteer

Volunteering can give seniors a sense of purpose. Local organizations always need an extra pair of hands, and seniors who volunteer get a chance to meet new people and make new friends. It's a great way for seniors to give back to their community and widen their social circle.

10. Get A Pet

Pets can become invaluable companions to seniors. Pets get seniors out of the house, promote physical activity, and provide comfort. Seniors who own pets tend to remain healthier compared to non-pet owners.

The main objective of CFM Bangalore is to promote integration between the groups as one family and to encourage conducting monthly meetings. The office bearers and the Executive Committee met many times to prepare a calendar for the year and plan the programmes. We acknowledge the spirit of involvement and guidance of our Regional Chaplain Friar Sidney Mascarenhas, O.F.M.

1 Monthly Meetings & Activities

It has been very encouraging to see many groups restart their monthly meetings after a two year gap due to Covid. Hats off to Group 10 leaders Gerald & Sharon; G10 met 7 times consecutively from Jan to July 2022. During one of their meetings they meditated and discussed areas of struggle in couple relationships and how to be more Christ like in those areas. This included a family activity where couples washed each other's feet and kissed it. It was a meaningful and memorable experience. Joseph & Regina Boniface animated the session.

Group 8, led by Charmine Saldanha, also met regularly. They presented their Chaplain Fr. James C.Ss.R with a love cake during one of their meetings.

2 Executive Committee Meeting

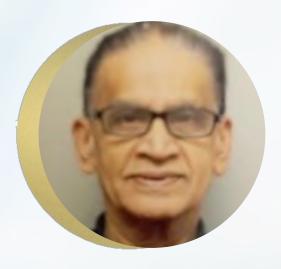

The Office Bearers and the Executive Committee (group leaders) met at CCWI office conference room to plan and execute the programmes that were set as goals to fulfill the Vision/Mission of CFM. The meeting included celebrating the 81st birthday of our Chaplain, Friar Sidney Mascarenhas, O.F.M., and the wedding anniversary of our Regional Vice President Couple, Josy & Philo Isaacs.

CFM India mourns the loss of the members who passed away over the last few months. They will be missed.

May their souls rest in peace

TRIFONIO CARDOZO
Husband of Rosie CardoZo
CFM Goa, Merces Group
Died: 14th April 2022

My husband, Trifonio Cardozo, was God's greatest gift to me and my son. We had 38 long years of married life together. He was a very generous husband, father, brother and friend. He had a large heart and loved bestowing gifts in grateful thanks on anyone who helped him and never refused anyone who approached him for financial assistance.

He was also an Excellent A-Class Cook and his specialty was cooking biryanis, baking all kinds of cakes and continental dishes and loved cooking for his friends on their special occasions.

He also won many Certificate Awards when working on Cruise lines, Cargo ships and 5-Star hotels all over the world for his excellent cooking.

My son and I will never forget the good times we all shared together as a family. His passing away has now left an empty void within us that can never be filled. I pray God grant Eternal Rest to Trifonio's dear soul.

MERVYN SALDANHA

Husband of Roopa Saldanha
CFM Bangalore

Died: 11th May 2022

'To whom much is given, much is expected off' - that is the legacy of Mervyn Saldanha to his three sons Mike, Marc and Matthew.

My father was one of a kind. We could always count on him - not because he was a superstar with super powers but because he was noble, kind, gentle, caring, considerate, hardworking, enterprising, wise and selfless. He cared deeply for his family, friends, the people who worked for him on the estate and others. His spirit of resilience, endurance and good humour saw him through health issues that would have broken a lesser man.

In June 2016, he grappled with death and when all hope was gone, when even the doctors at St John's had given up, I recollect all the prayers and support that poured in. After months of sleepless days and nights, the doctor said "This is truly a miracle. I don't know which God you pray to, but he will make it ." Today I ask God why did you not grant us another miracle or was my Dad's very life a miracle? Did God give him those extra six years to complete the work he had in mind? If we are anything today it is because of him. He gave us strength in time of trouble, wisdom in times of uncertainty and sharing in times of happiness.

My father, Mervyn, was like an eagle. He soared high, had vision, whatever the challenges he was fearless, he took life head on, was tenacious. He used life's raging storms to raise him high.

The loss of our father will always be felt but everything that I and my brothers do will be in honor of him. This is the price you pay for having a great father. You get the wonder, the joy, the tender moments — and you get the tears at the end, too.

RAYMOND FERNANDEZ

Husband of Lorraine Fernandez

CFM Bangalore

Died: 17th May 2022

I was asked to describe my father in one word. I had two - "Selfless Love".

A man of the highest integrity in his work environment, known for his ethical practices in government and in industry.

An intelligent, informed conversationalist and a trusted advisor to his friends. Charming and ever smiling.

My father went above and beyond, doing everything for his family. No words can do justice to what he was to us.

A loving, dutiful and devoted son to his parents.

An equal life partner with his wife. They played cards, danced, discussed us at length, had travel adventures and shared everyday nonsense.

Papa was my rock, confidant, motivator to work hard and excel, financial planner, advisor, dancing partner and Uber driver . I wanted to always make him proud.

For his granddaughters, 'Gampa Raymond' was their world. He drove them to school, ballet, art class and swimming. He was their teacher and friend.

Raymond Fernandez was, as the ad says "The Complete Man".

My dearest Papa, we love you to forever and beyond.

Ayesha Fernandez

JOAN PAL
Wife of Ajit Pal
CFM Bangalore
Died: 10th July 2022

To us three sisters, our mother Joan was nothing less than perfection. Right from our childhood, her every action inspired us to strive to be just like her - responsible, energetic, strong but sensitive humans.

She sacrificed her own personal ambitions for years while bringing us up - she went through a long 22 years of schooling between us! She pursued her hobbies despite this, while running the home flawlessly, all thanks to a kind of self-discipline that is so rare, probably learnt from her own parents, whom she also dedicatedly took care of in their last days.

She never said "I love you" at home, but her actions spoke for it more than words ever could. She was a quiet disciplinarian, and it is this training that has seen us through personal and professional challenges as adults. In recent years, a kind of friendship grew between us daughters & mom- we enjoyed her lighter side, her love for shopping (she was impeccably stylish without being extravagant), theatre, music and travelling. Our family travels are most cherished memories that we boast to friends about.

She was elegant and superbly efficient but never boastful. She was thoughtful with not just people, but of the environment as well. She really believed that family prayer would help us face life's difficulties. This is what will now keep us in good stead, even in her absence.

We all thought of her as an ever-present protector, not one to disappear without warning like she did and leave us heartbroken. Her zest for life is what will hopefully get us back on our feet. We would love nothing more than to be recognized for the same qualities she had.

Some Portraits of Death

Friar Sidney J. M. Mascarenhas, O.F.M., Ph.D., National Chaplain

1. What is the Portrait of Death?

There is no one Portrait of Death. Let me just share some of them.

1.1. "In the midst of life, we are in death!"

Actually, this portrait of Death is an old Medieval hymn, dating from New Year's Eve 1200! It was also sung later by soldiers who went out to battle and risked their lives for their fatherland. These words consoled their fears! After all, many die in wars, but one can also die in his/her bed, or, reading a newspaper, or, eating at table. Is it not?

This hymn also was and is even now sung at funerals! It reminded the bereavers, that one day, even they would die!

Benedictine Monks, and Friars (Carmelites, Franciscan, Conventual and Capuchin) also, sang it at the end of their Festive Meals or Recreation. brewed their own Trappists, Benedictine, Franciscan, Norbertine. Capuchin, Conventual Malts, Brown, Crystal, Blond Grain Beers that were brewed in their vast cellars, like those we know today in the small breweries in Bangalore, like Communiti Residency in Road. Bangalore!

Many paintings show monks and Friars, meditate, looking at a skull. In Rome, at Baberini Square, the Capuchins have a chapel decked with the 3700 skulls and skeletal remains of their confreres. Above the altar, one finds the Sign Board: "Memento moris." ("Remember you die.")

1.2. "Dies irae, dies calamitas" (Day of wrath, day of Calamity)

Another popular hymn was "Dies irae, dies calamitas." (Day of wrath, day of calamity." People sing it even today with gusto at funerals!

It is attributed to Friar Thomas of Celano (1256), a Franciscan Lawyer and Friar, and an author of three lives of St. Francis of Assisi.

I am sure, this hymn does capture the hearts and feelings of all humans who bereave the loss of their dear ones. Death is seen as a Judgement! A person reaps what he sowed in his/her life! But is Death a Judgement? It sounds rather scary!

1.3. Epicurus (341 – 271 B.C) & Epicureans.

The Greeks saw Death as something scary. And that is why Epicurus and his followers countered people with this argument: "Why fear Death? When you are alive, Death is not there! When Death is there, you are not there!! Remain cool, undisturbed! (atarasein). Make merry while you live! Make hay, while the Sun shines!

1.4 For Rabindranath Tagore.

Death was extinguishing the light; it is only putting off the lamp because the dawn has arrived!

It was also a mingling of one's self, into the Ocean of Life! Attaining Moksha!

1.5. For St. Paul.

In 1 Cor. 15:55, St. Paul asks: "Where, O Death, is your victory? Where, O Death, is your sting?"

1:6. For Men of Faith.

Death is a Passage to Life itself! It is crossing the Bank of the River of Life!

1.7. For Jesus Christ, the Son of God!

Death is commending oneself to our Creator & Father, Breathing in the Holy Spirit and breathing out the Holy Spirit! Death is commending oneself to a Loving Father in Heaven! "Father, into your hands I commend my spirit" (Lk 23:46 (Nabre))

1.8. In Death, we are all commended to our Father in heaven!

As CFMers and as your Regional and National Chaplain, I commend Mervyn Saldanha, Raymond Fernandez, Joan Pal, Trifonio Cardoso, and all their living dear and near ones (Roopa and her sons, Lorraine and her children and grand children, Ajit Pal and his children and grand children, Rosie and her son) to their Creator and Heavenly Father.

Jesus tells us: "In my Father's House there are many places. If there were not, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back again and take you to myself, so that where I am, you also may be. Where I am going, you know the way." (Jn 14: 2 – 3 (Nabre)

1.9. In Death, we all find our Mother of all Mothers! I also commend all of them to the Mother of all Mothers, Mary! She stood by His Cross. She stands by our Crosses! Jesus said to her and all of us, as He gave up His Spirit: "Behold, your Mother!" (Jn 19:27)

1.10. Death is a Homecoming!

Let us therefore be joyful for Mervyn, Raymond, Joan and Trifonio! "They ran the Race! (II Tim 4: 7) They are Home!

For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun?

And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?

Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.

And when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb.

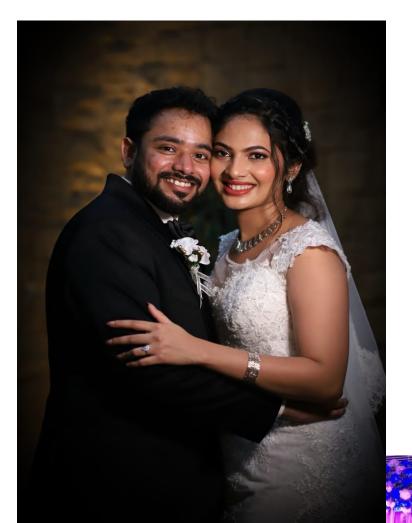

And when the earth shall claim your limbs, then shall you truly dance.

Kahlil Gibran
